HONOR CODE

George Mason shares in the tradition of an honor system that has existed in Virginia since 1842. The Honor Code is an integral part of university life. On the application for admission, students sign a statement agreeing to conform to and uphold the Honor Code. Students are responsible, therefore, for understanding the code's provisions. In the spirit of the code, a student's word is a declaration of good faith acceptable as truth in all academic matters. Cheating and attempted cheating, plagiarism, lying, and stealing of academic work and related materials constitute Honor Code violations. To maintain an academic community according to these standards, students and faculty must report all alleged violations to the Honor Committee. Any student who has knowledge of, but does not report, a violation may be accused of lying under the Honor Code. With this in mind, all students in this course are held to the strictest standards of the George Mason University Honor Code.

STUDENT SUPPORT

Any eligible student with an exceptionality documented through George Mason University's Disability Resource Center must notify the instructor so that suitable accommodations can be implemented. The notification should take place during the first week of class.

Expectations:

1. All assigned reading for each week should be completed in a timely fashion. The textbook is a valuable tool for learning in this class.
2. All written assignments must be typed (computer word processing is recommended).
3. Regular participation in class discussions and online discussion threads is required; it is assumed that when you participate online in the discussions, you have read the assigned chapters.
4. Students must abide by the Honor Code, guided by the spirit of academic integrity.

Class Attendance:

It is expected that every student will attend every class on time. Attendance will be taken each class and students are expected to notify the professor ahead of time if there is a conflict.

Participation:

Respect the free exchange of thought in an academic environment and the participants therein. You are encouraged to a) feel free to openly and respectfully contribute your thoughts; b) listen actively to the comments of others; c) be punctual; d) ask any and all appropriate questions that you have; and e) maintain civility in your interpersonal communications. Class discussions will be conducted in a civil, informed fashion. Your contributions are not only welcomed, they are essential. Your contributions will be enhanced by reading the material in a timely fashion according to the schedule of work below.

Alternative Work:

There is NO make-up work. Only those excused absences supported by documentation will be addressed at the instructor's discretion on an individual basis (e.g. a physician's note for an illness). Alternative work due to intercollegiate athletic competitions or other legitimate university activity must be arranged PRIOR to due date. A grade of '0' will be assigned to all missed work unless otherwise determined by the instructor.

REQUIRED READINGS

Readings will include current articles and news in addition to the textbook:

Successful Coaching, 4th Edition by Rainer Martens. Champaign, IL: Human Kinetics (2012)
ISBN 978-1-4504-0051-0

EVALUATION

Assessment Activities:

- 1) Final Exam (25%) The final exam will be cumulative and will be a combination of essay questions, short answer, true/false questions and matching.
- 2) Portfolio (50%) The portfolio will be a collection of assignments over the course of the semester and will be refined by the professor before the due date for completion. For example, the first assignment to be included in the portfolio will be a statement of coaching philosophy that will be revised over the course of the semester, as the students learn more about the coaching profession.
- 3) Discussions in class and online, evaluated for content and frequency, class assignments, attendance and overall enthusiasm for the course. (25%)
