COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course will consider the characteristics of food and wine tourism as they relate to environmentally, economically and socio-culturally sustainable tourism and assess the possibilities and limitations for its implementation within a variety of destinations and settings. It will also emphasize the historical development of the global food chain, artisan food and drink production, and the role of food and wine in the tourist experience.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

On completion of this course students should be able to:

- 1. Summarize food, drink, and agriculture and their relevance to tourism.
- 2. Demonstrate an awareness of good practice in food and wine tourism management.
- 3. Analyze the economic, environmental, and socio-cultural contexts of food and wine through tourism.
- 4. Evaluate the principles of agriculture and the culinary arts in relation to destination management and tourism marketing.
- 5. Assess the practical implementation of agriculture, food and tourism policies.
- 6. Compare and contrast differences in and rationale for food and wine tourism development.
- 7. Identify and interpret current trends in in tourism planning and development.
- 8. Evaluate and explain the challenges and opportunities encountered in implementing food and drink tourism management principles in such subsectors as accommodation, transportation, attractions, and tour operations.

NATURE OF COURSE DELIVERY

This is an upper-level course in tourism and events management. It will require the use of information derived from: lecture/textbook material; general print and online library resources; and external data sources. The course is also delivered in a variety of ways, such as lecture presentations, in class presentations, peer reviews, research groups, guest speakers, field trips, and writing assignments. The objective is threefold: to encourage collaborative and supportive learning environment among students; to emphasize that students are as responsible for their learning as their instructor(s) are; and to encourage analysis and critical thinking. Thus, students are held to the standards of the George Mason University Honor Code. They are expected to attend all class sections, actively participate in class discussions, complete in-class or take-home exercises and fulfill all assignments. Assignments must be turned in at the specified time and date due via Blackboard or no credit will be given. Detailed information about course rules, course requirements and evaluation will be provided separately in class.
